A DAVE STEWART: WALK-IN, if it's any good, has to be convincing to all sorts of people - assuming they are reasonably bright and attentive Issue 5 - and not just the few who possess those qualities and have also had certain experiences in a handful of major American cities. Dualism affects persons: in the old Jewish and Christian apocalypses God or the Messiah brings about the renewal. The unavoidable truth is that, by and large, the increasingly privileged and entitled products of an elite private education have - almost inevitably - only a limited and partial understanding of, and empathy with, the realities of everyday life as lived by most people.
